Pittsburgh Forecast:

OUTLOOK

Rest of the week: An active weather pattern is in store for the region this week with 4 separate weather systems moving through the region by Sunday. Periods rain showers will persist through the end of the week with a gradual cooling trend through the weekend. Sunday there is a chance for a mix of rain and snow. Precipitation expected through Sunday will range from 0.50 to 1.50 inches.

Week of Mar 17th: Active and "warm" period persists. Active pattern keeps rainfall above normal..

Week of Mar 24th: Remaining well above normal for temperature and wetter than normal.

Outlook for April: Models still suggest temperatures well above normal and precipitation above normal.

Apr-May-Jun Outlook: Above normal temperatures and above average precipitation.

HIGH WATER POTENTIAL

Streamflows are running at or above normal in Monongahela and upper Ohio rivers and near normal across the Allegheny River. Higher streamflows an active weather pattern and the fact that we are still in "dormancy", means it will take less rainfall to reach bank full (~1.50-2.00"). The threat of river flooding is elevated due to these conditions.
